Historical Note:

Henry Colt was born in 1803 and died in 1888. Henry Colt was a ship captain who lived in Edgartown. He had two wives during his long life. His first wife was Nancy Baylies. After 17 years of marriage, Nancy passed away. Captain Colt quickly remarried and chose another Islander--Harriet T. Cummings. Henry Colt had several children with each wife. While Colt's voyages left from New Bedford, he continued to reside on Martha's Vineyard. Colt captained a number of vessels that took him to different parts of the Atlantic and Pacific.

Scope and Content Note:

The Henry Colt collection (.5 cubic feet) consists of personal and business letters to and from Henry Colt. Accounts and muster books from his voyages are also in the collection as well as many business receipts (arranged chronologically). Letters to and from Colt family members can also be found in the collection (arranged chronologically). One folder contains legal documents that pertain to Henry Colt and his family members. The Martha's Vineyard Museum has three ships logs that Henry Colt captained. The logbooks of the Salley Anne (145), the Java (22), and the Champion (56A) are housed in the Gale Huntington Library. Also, there are several deeds that relate to Henry Colt and his family (box 132B and 133B).
